TASTE

In Fine Spirits anniversary Andersonville

The 2-year anniversary celebration for this wine shop and lounge lasts through Friday, but wine buffs with a mean palate will want to get there for the kickoff on Sunday. Buy a $6 blind tasting flight Sunday at In Fine Spirits Lounge (5420 N. Clark St. 773-334-9463) and vote for the wine you'd like to see included on the spring menu. Guess any one wine varietal or region and get $1 off the flight; guess them all, and your flight is free. Mark your calendar for deals and events throughout the week. We're especially excited to try the spot's Anniversary Ale, tapped Friday (psst: Get free canapes at the bar from 3-5 p.m.). No cover.
When: 3 p.m. Sunday

Food Blogger Bake Sale Lakeview

Buy sweets made by 10-15 local foodies at this blogger-driven sale, part of the countrywide Great American Bake Sale benefiting Share Our Strength, a coalition to help fight childhood hunger. Need tempting? Cherry lime scones (left), quilted sugar cookies, deep chocolate brownies with chevre and orange-chocolate chip cookies are just a few of the items on tap, some starting at $1 a piece. If you're a food-blog peruser, you might recognize some of the bakers' names: Jackie Kolber of foodiereflections.com, David Capretto of spicysammich.tumblr.com, Bethany Park of bridezillabakes.com and Blogger Bake Sale organizer Maris Callahan of ingoodtasteblog.net. It all goes down at Smash Cake (2961 N. Lincoln Ave. 773-281-2353). Donations for Share Our Strength will be accepted on site.

DANCE

OK Go Wrigleyville

Treadmills, patio choreography, Rube Goldberg Machine antics, oh my! The viral-video pop rockers, who snuck into the news recently after announcing their breakup with EMI and Capitol Records (and who laid their rock groundwork in Chicago, we might add), are making a stop at Metro (3730 N. Clark St. 773-549-0203) to push their latest album, "Of the Blue Colour of the Sky." We can't promise Rube Goldberg-tastic antics, but we're banking on the catchy, danceable tunes for which OK Go is known. Along for the ride are two need-to-know bands, Earl Greyhound and the Booze. $17-$19.

GEEK OUT

Chicago Comic and Entertainment Expo Bronzeville

The time has come to profess your geekness among fellow comic-book fan boys and girls. But never fear, you newbies who panic about "Trekkie" association: The inaugural Chicago Comic and Entertainment Expo (C2E2) at McCormick Place (2301 S. Lake Shore Drive. 312-791-7500) has a pop-culture sensibility that appeals even to casual readers of graphic novels and dabblers in action-hero movies. Case(s) in point: Steve Gonsalves and Dave Tango from "Ghost Hunters Academy" host a Q&A at 8 p.m. Saturday; props from the "Iron Man" movie are being auctioned off Sunday; and there's a "Cleveland Show" panel/screening at 6:15 p.m. Saturday. $20-$25 per day.

HAIKUS YOU CAN USE

Herman van Rompuy must have a little extra time on his hands. This week, the European Union president published a book of Haiku poetry, The Associated Press reported. "I don't think I will set a trend" at the EU, Van Rompuy said. Maybe not at the EU, but what about Chicago? Absolutely! Here now, RedEye's look back at some of the week's biggest news—presented in haiku.

Go from sloppy to sparkly in no time with these tips

By Genevieve Diesing | FOR REDEYE

Joey Dertien's two-bedroom Beverly apartment was littered with clothes, empty glasses, bicycle parts and power tools on a recent weekend. The kitchen sink was full of dirty dishes, the recycle bin was overflowing, and a pile of coffee grounds was spread across the floor, just shy of the compost bucket it was intended for.

"I've come to realize I'm just not the neatest person," Dertien, 34, recently confessed to RedEye.

Not that anyone's judging, but what do you expect from a guy whose name is pronounced "DIRTY-in"?

Now that winter officially has released its frigid grip on the city, Chicagoans no longer have an excuse for not taking the trash to the curb. And the extra hours of sunlight only draw more attention to the new layers of dust that coat the old layers of dust on the furniture. You know what that means: It's spring cleaning season.

For Dertien, the climate most definitely dictates his housekeeping habits.

"Cleaning isn't very satisfying when you can't open the windows and let some fresh air in," said Dertien, who does plan to clean up his dirty clothes and nasty dishes-eventually. "I can't imagine scrubbing my bathtub while wearing a sweater. But [in] some old shorts and a T-shirt, no problem."

While Dertien has a strong tolerance for grime and disorder in the winter months, some are fastidious with their cleaning regimens all year.

"My office stays just as tidy as my house," said Brett Casey, 25, of Irving Park. "In fact, when the cleaning staff comes around I always organize everything before I let them clean. Whenever I move into a new apartment, I spend a lot of time coming up with the perfect storage and organization solutions."

Corey Willis' cleaning habits fall somewhere in the middle—especially now that pollen is in the air.

"I am not the most diligent duster, but I am to a point where I have to try and keep up on it to an extent," the 27-year-old Andersonville resident said. "I have allergies. So if I do not make an effort to get some of the dust from time to time, I wake up with constant congestion and headaches."

But is a dirty house hazardous to your health?

A little dust and clutter isn't harmful, according to Dr. Anju Peters, who specializes in allergy and immunology at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. (In fact, some research shows that a dirt can be beneficial around children who need to develop their immunity.)

The most significant hazard, she said, is to people who suffer from indoor allergies. According to Peters, as much as 60 percent of people are allergic to some kind of indoor allergen, including dust mites and pet allergens.

"People do tend to forget indoor allergens are there year-round," she said.

To reduce exposure to them, Peters recommends a few precautions: Cut down on decorative pillows, and buy pillow, mattress and box spring covers that are resistant to dust mites.

Of course, regular cleaning also helps. And even Dertien plans to tidy his abode, but not until it's absolutely necessary.

"If someone were to call me up and tell me they were coming over, things would change in a hurry," he said.

GENEVEVE DIESING IS A REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

SO FAST, SO FRESH

Your parents just called, and they'll be at your less-than-pristine home in an hour. Surprise! Now take a breath. Just because your house is a dump doesn't mean you have to head off the folks at the doorstep. Instead, get to work scrubbing the most visible parts of your place. Chicago cleaning experts Sonya Zimmer, owner of Manic Maids Inc., and Coralee Kern, owner of Maid to Order, gave RedEye a one-hour strategy that will turn your domestic disaster into a presentable space. (And if you have more time, check out their deep cleaning tips.) G.D.

Living room 10 minutes

Between watching movies, playing Wii or just chilling, this is the room that your guests probably will spend the most time in. You don't have much time, so tuck away the clutter. If that feels overwhelming, make small piles wherever you can.

Wipe away visible dust, taking down cobwebs along the ceiling with a vacuum hose or broom, and work your way down. Keep those wipes and rags with you for this. "If you start working on the top floor, some of that dust will go downstairs," Kern says. In single-floor homes, the same methodology applies to the floor and ceiling. Finally, spruce up those dingy area rugs by shaking them outside, then finish with a quick sweep of the floor or a vacuum.

For deep cleaners: Wipe down your bookshelves and that dusty DVD collection. Move the furniture to properly sweep or vacuum under couches and chairs.

Bathroom

15 minutes

You might as well get the least-desirable part of the job out of the way first! Skip the shower and concentrate on the parts of the room guests most likely will see. Stash your health and beauty clutter and pick up those questionable hairballs. Spray down counters and scummy nooks and crannies with a cleanser that has bleach in it, such as Comet or Formula 409. Now for the unpleasant part: While the foam is working, plug your nose, put on some rubber gloves and scrub the toilet bowl with a toilet brush and cleaning solution. If you brush quickly under the toilet rim with the same bleach cleanser, you'll be out in no time. Zimmer recommends Clorox wipes for polishing counters and toilets, and wiping down surface dirt. Give a quick spray of Windex on the mirror to complete the room and then you're off.

For deep cleaners: For an impeccably sparkling bathroom, scour surfaces with soap and water before polishing with disinfecting wipes. To keep the toilet clean, scrub it with a toilet brush and wipe down with wipes every few days.

Bedroom

10 minutes

Four words: Pick up those clothes. Toss them in the laundry hamper if you're not going to hang them up right away. Making your bed makes your room look five times cleaner. Fluff your pillows, clear off your desk and stash random papers from sight. To freshen up your bedroom's smell without doing a load of laundry, get some air in there. "One thing I love to do is shake my down comforter off my back porch," Zimmer says. "The fresh air will give the bedroom—believe it or not—a clean smell." Vacuum and dust if you have time. And if you've finished all this and your guests haven't arrived yet, go to the fridge and get yourself a cold beverage. You deserve it!

For deep cleaners: If you want better air quality, wipe down mini-blinds, the blades of your ceiling fan and air vents.

Kitchen

15 minutes

Still got those wipes?

Good. You'll need them to de-grease laminate counters and those infuriating stovetop stains. "You don't need a lot of products, just something with bleach," Zimmer says. Be sure to move everything off the counter before cleaning it to get it really gleaming. "You don't want to just lift everything up and wipe underneath it," Zimmer says. Skip the inside of the fridge and wipe down just the doors. For marble, granite or steel surfaces, use a sponge with dish soap and water. Sweep the floor, and if it isn't filthy, wipe specific problem areas with disinfectant wipes.

For deep cleaners: It's not just stovetops that absorb the wrath of messy cooking. Take a moment to wipe the tomato sauce and chicken soup spatters on the walls around your stove. Sweep the crumbs out of the cranny between your oven and wall.

Dining room

10 minutes

Are the placemats showing their wear? Turn them over. Is the tablecloth embedded with crumbs? Toss it in the laundry hamper and wipe down the table underneath with a dishrag. Is the window grimy with dirt? Windex that sucker. If you don't have to deal with clutter, target the walls and windows. Take a vacuum to the curtains and carpet. Dust the windowsills and corners of the room. If your chair cushion stains are a preview of your wine selection, consider draping a decorative fabric over them until you can properly clean them. Only one room to go!

For deep cleaners: Lampshades and light fixtures can accumulate a lot of gunk and dead insects. Do you really want these building up in the room where you eat? Didn't think so. Stand on a chair or footstool, if necessary, to clean these with a duster and disinfecting wipes.

57TH STREET BOOKS & INTERNATIONAL HOUSE
WELCOME CRAIG ROBINSON

Saturday, April 24th, 2pm at International House, 1414 E. 59th St. Most American's first met Craig Robinson when he introduced his sister, Michelle Obama, at the 2008 Democratic National Convention. In A Game of Character: A Family Journey from Chicago's Southside to the Ivy League and Beyond, Craig Robinson takes readers behind the scenes to meet his family and the other important influences in his life who have contributed to his success both on and off the basketball court. The result is a stunning tribute to his parents, coaches, and other mentors who have contributed to his ongoing search for what it truly means to have character. ## Who's that Doctor?

By Curt Wagner REDEYE

When David Tennant announced two years ago that he would be leaving "Doctor Who," fans worldwide freaked.

No one could replace the beloved Tennant—"my Doctor," they said—in the longest-running sci-fi series in TV history. They summarily rejected Matt Smith when, in Tennant's final episode, the 10th Doctor regenerated to become Smith's 11th.

They needn't have worried. Smith owns the Time Lord role from the beginning of his first full episode, "The 11th Hour." At first he's vaguely reminiscent of Tennant, uttering such nostalgic silliness as "oogily-googily" and "timey-wimey." By the time he confronts the Atraxi's spaceship, he's carved his own identity. Smith's Doctor is a madcap, free-wheeling adventurer, but with the gravitas of an old soul.

"Hello, I'm the Doctor," he warns the aliens. "Basically, run."

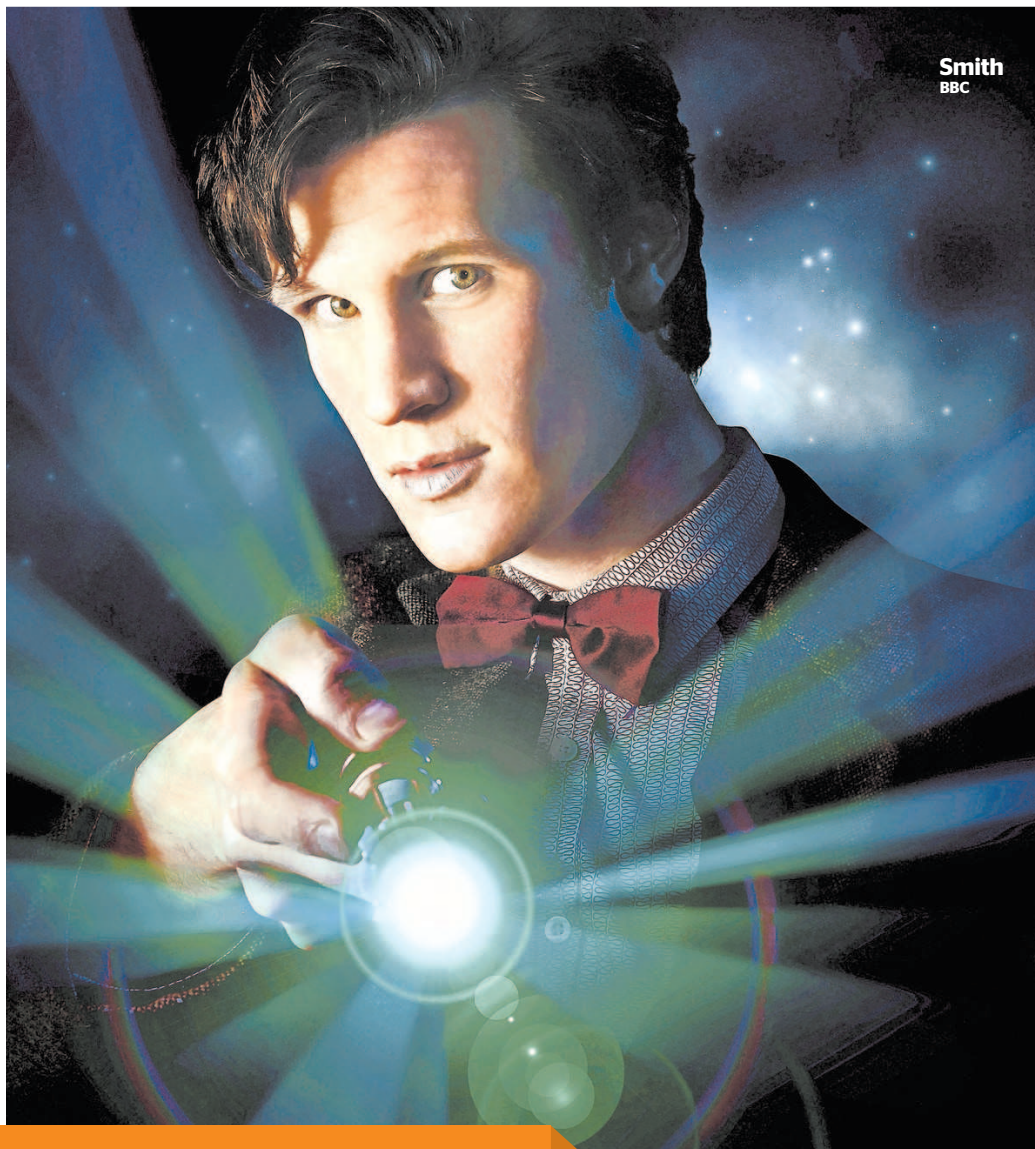

Wow, I just gave myself goose bumps typing that. Steven Moffat, who has taken show runner duties from Russell T Davies, delivers plenty of spine-tingling moments like that.

Although the alien story in "The Eleventh Hour" isn't one of Moffat's best—it's similar to the alien-cop-hunts-alien-criminal story of the 2007 episode "Smith and Jones"—it beautifully introduces Smith and Karen Gillan as the Doctor's new companion, Amy Pond.

"Cracks in the skin of the universe," Prisoner Zero says. "Where did they come from? The Pandoric will open. Silence will fall."

I'm not sure what it means, but I can't wait to find out. Like Amy, I'm more than willing to ride along with this new Doctor.

VIDEO GAME

Tom Clancy's Splinter Cell: Conviction

Xbox 360

Agent Sam Fisher returns with a chip on his shoulder in this fast-paced covert ops game that rewards stealth sneaking over overt shooting.

The sixth "Splinter Cell" installment is a cinematic adventure with few breaks in the action. Sam, aptly voiced by actor Michael Ironside, sneaks along pipes and ledges, climbs walls, and springs and rolls between cover positions before taking out enemies with a growing arsenal of guns and cool hand-to-hand combat moves.

DIRK LAMMERS, AP

ALBUM

Foxy Shazam

Foxy Shazam

I don't care where you are. If you're listening to the epic sing-along "Count Me Out" from these highly entertaining Cincinnati glam rockers, you'd better believe you're going to belt it out too. Not everything on the band's overproduced major label debut is as exhilarating, but the high points are so high you won't really care. At a time when a lot of modern buzz bands are stripping down songs into the least they can be, Foxy Shazam turns to '70s/'80s bombast to go big and make it count. MATT PAIS, METROMIX

DVD AND BLU-RAY

Pirate Radio

Available now

Here's a nifty film about the 1960s when the BBC shunned popular music. The only way those in the U.K. could hear it was to listen to the pirate radio stations that operated on ships anchored far off shore. Director Richard Curtis takes us on board one of these ships and explores the various characters who occupy it. The top disc jockey on its deck is The Count (excellently played by Philip Seymour Hoffman). DOUG NYE, MCT

Jason Castro

Jason Castro

Jason Castro is a master of re-invention. Who knew? The Dreadlocked One left "American Idol" two seasons ago as the affable, slightly dopey folksy known for being laid-back and forgetful, but returns with "Jason Castro," a charming, well-crafted collection of catchy pop-folk. The single "That's What I'm Here For" is poignant enough to introduce anyone or, in Castro's case, reintroduce him as a promising brand new star. GLENN GAMBOA, NEWSDAY

ALBUM

Slash

Slash

On Slash's first solo album, the most faithful approximation of the classic Guns N' Roses sound comes on "Beautiful Dangerous." The guest vocalist on that cut? Fergie of the Black Eyed Peas. Slash's recruitment of such a heavy-metal outlier illustrates his determination to find a replacement for Axl Rose. You can look at the 14 all-star collaborations on "Slash" as evidence of his impressive Rolodex, or you can view them as a series of creative tryouts—musical speed dating in search of a new Mr. (or Ms.) Right. MIKAEL WOOD, L.A. TIMES

Get your kicks

Tired of being a bystander to crime, awkward teen Dave (Aaron Johnson) dons a wetsuit and aims to take down baddies as the superhero Kick-Ass. Soon he's a YouTube sensation and wrapped into other self-made superheroes' (Nicolas Cage, Chloe Grace Moretz) revenge mission against a drug lord (Mark Strong).

The buzz: Early footage of "Kick-Ass" got fanboys buzzing at Comic Con '09, and we're always up for a Cage performance that realizes where it fits between tough and ridiculous. This adaptation of the popular comic book about vigilantism has to be better than "Watchmen."

The verdict: One of the best revenge flicks since "Kill Bill," the badass "Kick-Ass" is packed with little pockets of awesomeness waiting to be activated. Yeah, the movie kinda romanticizes vigilante justice and indulges in squishy violence more than it needs to. The film also is very funny and perfectly balances reality and cartoonishness. Plus, it's still on the side of righteousness—and if blood has to be spilled to defend honor, so be it. These captivating self-appointed heroes prove there's power in everyone to fight for justice in a DIY world.

Worth watching? MATT'S PICKS FOR WHAT'S ALSO IN THEATERS

DATE NIGHT (PG-13)

One of the funniest of the year. Seriously.

THE JONESES (R)

Something to think about.

THE GREATEST (R)

How can you not love Carey Mulligan?

DEATH AT A FUNERAL (R)

Don't remake horrible movies. Thanks.

AFTER.LIFE (R)

It's almost difficult to make a movie this dumb.

the juice

Longman & Eagle
2657 N. Kedzie
Ave. 773-276-7110

(3 out of 4 eggs)

Brunch time:
10 a.m.-2 p.m.
Sunday

Wait time: None.
Expect that to change soon.

Getting there:
Logan Square
stop; easy street

The Eagle has landed

By M. Kathleen Pratt

A proper inn, which is what Longman & Eagle aspires to be just as soon as the upstairs guest rooms are finished, needs to have a welcoming spread ready for any wandering souls who come its way on a Sunday morning. In a particularly gutsy move, the 3-month-old Logan Square spot chose Easter Sunday to get the show on the road. Did they pull it off? We break it down.

Server says: Get the smoked ham hock scrapple if you're really hungry ($12); if you don't want to roll right out the door and into the middle of Kedzie Avenue after brunch, go with the duck confit hash ($13). The vanilla ice cream-topped, apricot preserve-stuffed brioche French toast ($11) is crazy-indulgent (in a good way).

We say: Nice call on the hash. The dish has just a hint of truffle flavor and comes topped with a sunny duck egg, but the portion is restrained. It gets the job done without delivering a knockout punch.

Don't miss: The biscuits and gravy ($9, $12 with two eggs), two moist, doughy biscuits (not too flaky, because what's the point if you're just going to drown them in gravy?) smothered in extra-meaty, sage-scented pork sausage gravy.

Feel free to pass on: The crisped pork belly omelet ($12) with piquillo peppers and manchego. More manchego probably isn't the solution, but there just wasn't enough cheese to keep it from seeming dry.

On the side: A simple mixed green salad with meyer lemon vinaigrette ($5) is the ideal counterpoint to heavier, meat-focused dishes—it almost should be a mandatory side order. At the opposite end of the spectrum, there's beef tongue hash ($5).

Is it lunch time yet? The breakfast-weary have two choices: a wild boar sloppy Joe ($11) or a bacon-cheddar burger with beef-fat fries ($12).

Day drinking: An araniella ($8) is the perfect elixir for a spring morning, a soothing, almost chartreuse green mix of Hendrick's gin, cucumber and mint syrup. If you want to take advantage of the bar's way with whiskey, the bloody lawrence ($8, left), a pint glass-sized bloody mary with corn whiskey subbing for the vodka, is the thing.

Buzz factor: High. The beans come from Milwaukee roaster Alterra, and the servers never let your cup cool.

Longman & Eagle
BARRY BRECHEISEN PHOTOS FOR METROMIX

Crowd surfing: The brunch hour is a little more neighborhood (shorties welcome) and a little less hipster than the evening scene, but you're still in the heart of Logan Square. Wear your fitted Western button-down, a distressed V-neck T-shirt, skinny jeans, an unkempt beard, or any combination thereof, and you'll fit right in.

Cut the cords—just go wireless

Situation: How do I hide my computer's web of cords?

Solution: Go wireless where you can and wrangle the rest.

The wireless world. A place where your computer recharges itself and your cell phone, iPad and iPod all are contained in one easy-to-use device that fits neatly inside your solar-powered shoulder bag. It's a beautiful dream, but it's not reality.

In truth, we're still connected to cords. Chargers, USB cords and plain old plugs bind us to the outlets in our homes and now, maybe more than ever, we're dealing with such a mess of electronics that it's not uncommon to see huge clods of tangled cords hiding out below desks and TV stands. Ready to face the cord monster and vanquish him once and for all? Here's how.

Simplify your network

Apple users can try the AirPort Express (right), a little $99 device that makes it possible to wirelessly network your Mac, printer, TV, stereo system, Nintendo Wii and all those other electronics that make your apartment look like the robot's room in "Wall-E."

Invest in a charging station

For less than $50, you can buy a small, streamlined box that will recharge your phone, PDA and mp3 player.

I like the boxy, no-nonsense charging stations at kangaroomstorage.com, which range from $10 to $30. If you prefer more high-end bachelor pad tech, check out the $130 Sanctuary Charging Station (below) from BlueLounge (bluelounge.com), a beautiful device that reminds me of a sushi tray.

Corral your cables

Cableorganizer.com is entirely devoted to the art of cord control. The site has everything—from $1 Velcro strips that bind your cords together to $15 Cable Turtles that wind up your cords into a compact ball.

Hide the mess

When hiding cords, be careful not to cover anything that gives off significant heat or uses a fan—such as transformers, routers or external hard drives. After you've determined that you won't be burning your house down, find a decorative box made of stiff material that you can cut into, such as thick cardboard. Use a box cutter to cut a large hole into the back of the box. (If you're a neat freak, you also can cut notches into the box for your cords to lay flat.) Slip the cords inside, artfully arrange the box against the wall, and you're all set.

HOCKEY AT THE OPRY

SADDLE UP—WE'RE PAIRING BLACKHAWKS WITH THEIR MUSIC CITY MATCHES

Sure, we could wonder aloud once again how Nashville has its own NHL franchise, but we're feelin' a might generous. So with the Blackhawks hitting the Southern road early next week to play the Predators in Music City, we thought we'd get into the spirit ourselves and explore which Hawks players might have a country music equivalent. RYAN SMITH IS A REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

By Ryan Smith
FOR REDEYE

Kane

Toews

Swift

Underwood

PATRICK KANE/JONATHAN TOEWS

Country music twins: Taylor Swift and Carrie Underwood
We're not questioning the masculinity of this dynamic scoring duo, but like these blond songbirds, they're young, good-looking, breakout stars who just can't seem to pull off the playoff beard look.

Hossa

Jennings

MARIAN HOSSA

Country music twin: Waylon Jennings
The late Jennings was part of the edgy "outlaw" country movement in the early '80s, while Hossa is a bit of an outlaw himself in Pittsburgh after turning down a big contract with the Penguins after the '08 season to go to the Red Wings. And did we mention Jennings had an album in 1987 entitled "A Man Called Hoss"? 'Nuff said.

Duncan Keith

Toby Keith

DUNCAN KEITH

Country music twin: Toby Keith
Beyond the obvious similarity of having two first names, both Keiths are all about putting up big numbers. Toby's had tons of No. 1 hits, while Duncan put up 69 points for the season, a huge number for a defenseman.

Byfuglien

Parton

DUSTIN BYFUGLIEN

Country music twin: Dolly Parton
Byfuglien has a bulky body (6-foot-4, 257 pounds) and a huge slapshot that's been measured at about 100 mph. As for dear Dolly, everything's big about her—her voice, her theme park and, of course, her legendary bra size.

Blagojevich is too easy. I vote for ex-Rep. Eric Massa because he fans the flames.

ERNEST WILKINS
erwilkins@tribune.com

The fourth-oldest member of the Senate, Hammerin' Hawaiian Sen. Daniel Akaka, of course! (Thank you Wikipedia!)

CHRIS SOSA

Rod Blagojevich. They can use him as slide-tackling dummy.

BRIAN MOORE
brmoore@tribune.com

Bill Clinton. You can't use your hands in soccer. He could learn something from them.

Listen to John Williams from 9 a.m. to noon on Chicago's WGN Radio 720.

Enter a number between 1 and 9 in the empty squares. The clues are the numbers in the white circles that give the sum of the solution numbers: above the line are across clues; below the line are down clues. Thus, a clue of 3 will produce a solution of 2 and 1, and a 5 will produce 4 and 1, or 2 and 3, but, of course, which squares they go in will depend on the solution of a clue in the other direction. No digit can be repeated in a solution. Answer at redevechicago.com/puzzles. EDITED BY MICHAEL MEPHAM

Make a 2- to 7-letter word from the letters in each row. Add points of each word, using scoring directions at right. Finally, 7-letter words get a 50-point bonus. "Blanks" used as any letter have no point value. All the words are in the Official Scrabble Players Dictionary, 3rd Edition. # GIRLS' NIGHT OUT

RedEye's planning Katy Perry's bachelorette party so Rihanna doesn't have to Rihanna is stressin'. The pop star recently revealed on Ryan Seacrest's radio show that she's been tasked with planning Katy Perry's bachelorette party. Yes, that Katy Perry. The one who kisses girls and likes it, often wakes up in Vegas and has chosen the explosively unpredictable Russell Brand as a mate.

"I have to come up with something cool," Rihanna said, according to MTV.

Relax, RiRi. We got this one. You should host that bachelorette bash here in Chicago! It's not as exotic as India, where Katy's wedding is said to be taking place, but we've got, um, Lower Wacker Drive, another place known for its exotic scents.

Seriously, we think Rihanna could throw a real rager here, and even meet up with some of our local celebrities. Here's a foolproof itinerary. ARIEL ALEXOVICH, REDEYE

9 P.M.
Park Grill

1 Gotta fuel up before a night of partying. Hurry and you might catch the very single Jake Gyllenhaal, who's been dining in the Millennium Park restaurant while in town filming "Source Code."

10:30 P.M.
District Bar

2 This River North spot is a fave of the Blackhawks and other Chicago athletes. Spend enough time here and you might get invited into Patrick Kane's limo!

MIDNIGHT
Sound-Bar

3 Head just down the street and hang out for a while. Watch the beautiful people. Maybe Jeremy Piven will try to hit on you. Make that Jeremy Piven definitely will hit on you.

1:30 A.M.
Double Door

4 Meet up with Billy Corgan at this grimey-cool music venue in Wicker Park. At least Billy'll help you cross "kiss a bald man" off your bachelorette scavenger hunt to-do list.

3 A.M.
Taste Entertainment Center

5 You ladies could have a diva-off with Jennifer Hudson at this R&B-playing club in Englewood, the former "Idol" star's old neighborhood.

4:30 A.M.
Wiener's Circle

6 If it's good enough for George Clooney's late-night snacking, this Lincoln Park spot is good enough for Katy Perry.

Jay-Z

Jay-Z defends his turf

Jay-Z is big hatin'. The rap mogul and a business partner are suing Boston Red Sox slugger David Ortiz, according to The Associated Press. Hova alleges the slugger named his Dominican nightclub Forty-Forty in an attempt to cash in on Jay's chain of 40/40 clubs. He's seeking more than $5 million in damages and wants Ortiz to change his club's name.

Jen's so Lolavie

Jennifer Aniston's fans have flocked to salons for her hair, yoga studios for her body and now they can capture her scent. The former "Friends" star (right) will release a signature perfume called Lolavie, according to Women's Wear Daily, people.com reports. The fragrance will launch in the U.K. in June exclusively at Harrods.

HOT DIGIT

15 The number of pounds Kate Gosselin (below) was expecting to shed from her stint on "Dancing With the Stars." In a video on RadarOnline, the multi-mom says she's wound up eating more because she's hungry. "It stinks," she said. "They said I would lose 15 pounds and I'm like, 'Sign me up.' Hasn't happened."

Ryan Seacrest is not looking forward to sparring partner Simon Cowell's departure from "American Idol" next season.

"It will be like losing my oxygen," the self-proclaimed "master of ceremonies" told the Los Angeles Times this week.

Seacrest also disagreed that the most recent crop of contestants has been a little "sleepy."

"While one week may seem down, the next week could be through the roof," he said. "I know there's no one quite as glamorous as Adam [Lambert] on the show, but that was his thing. That was his niche."

"I'll be on an elevator with someone, and the elevator will bump and they'll say, 'There's an X-File.' And I'll say, 'Actually that's not an X-File. That's not a great story. The elevator just bumped.'"

Thin pays the bills

Body obsession is just part of the job, Amanda Seyfried (right) told AOL StyleList, according to us magazine.com. "It's [bleeped] up and it's twisted, but I wouldn't get the roles otherwise," the "Dear John" star said. "If I'd been bigger, I don't think they would have cast me for 'Mamma Mia!'"
